بھیہ جان کر بہ حد غمی ہوئی ہے کہ پاکستان کے تاریخی شہر لاہور میں پانچویں قائد اعظم انٹرنیشنل فنڈ بال ٹورنامنٹ ۱۹۸۷ء کا انعقاد کیا جا رہا ہے۔ میں اس موقع پر پاکستان فیڈریشن کو اس اہم ٹورنامنٹ کے انعقاد پر مبارکباد پیش کرتا ہوں جس میں ہرادر، مہسارہ، مالک چین، بنگلہ دیش، نیپال اور مالدیپ کی ٹیمیں بھی حصہ لے رہی ہیں۔

درحقیقت ملک میں دیگر کھیلوں کی طرح فنڈ بال کو شروع دن سے عوامی کھیل کی حیثیت حاصل رہی ہے۔ بلوچستان میں تو اس کھیل کو غیر معمولی حیثیت حاصل رہی ہے۔ یہاں ہر مقام پاکستان سے قبل اور اس کے بعد وہ نامور کھیلڑی پیدا ہوئے جنہوں نے ملک کے اندر اور باہر اس کھیل میں ملک کا نام روشن کیا۔ اگرچہ اس میں فنڈ بال کی قابل ذکر سرپرستی نہیں کی گئی۔ لیکن موجودہ حکومت نے اس جانب پہلی مرتبہ توجہ دے دی۔ بلوچستان میں ضلعی سطح پر فنڈ بال کے فروغ کی خاطر سٹیڈیم تعمیر کئے جا رہے ہیں۔ تاہم عوامی سطح پر اس سے دوبارہ مقبول بنایا جاسکے۔

میں آخر میں ایک مرتبہ ہر ٹورنامنٹ کی کامیابی کے لئے دعا کرتا ہوں۔

It is a matter of pride and satisfaction to know that the Asian Football Confederation has permitted the Pakistan Football Federation to hold the 5th Quaid-e-Azam International Football Tournament at Lahore.

I am also happy to note that the friendly countries of China, Bangladesh, Nepal and Maldeive are sending their teams which will make it a real International tournament.

I need not elaborate on football but it is well known that it is the most widely played game in the world and the most popular and one sees daily on Television the huge crowds which are there to watch the matches. There is more enthusiasm and love for this game then anyother in the world.

I am confident that the team of Hafiz Salman Butt a dedicated sportsman and Sh.Abrar Ahmed an able and veteran organizer will make this tournament a grand success.

However, I take the liberty to give a word of advice and that is that discipline should be observed in every phase of the competition and discipline applies not only to the sportsmen but also to the organizers as well.

I wish the organizers the best of luck and all good wishes to the participating team.

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE ASIAN FOOTBALL CONFEDERATION

It has been observed that there has been marked improvements in the standard displayed by both the Junior and Senior teams of Pakistan, in the recent regional and International Tournaments. These improvements could certainly be attributed to the constant exposure of your teams to International Competitions.

The members of the Executive Committee of the Pakistan Football Federation must be congratulated for their enterprise in not only making the Quaid-E-Azam Tournament an annual event in their football calendar but also for playing the Tournaments in different parts of the country which would further enhance the popularity of the Game and accord organisational opportunities to the Provincial Associations.

I must once again give a word of warning to the organisers against the choice of mediocre teams. Improvements could only be achieved if a team plays against a much stronger and well trained team!

I wish the participating teams good luck and the Organisers, the Punjab Football Association, every success in their endeavour.

Regards.

THE QUAID-I-AZAM INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL TOURNAMENT A STARTING POINT FOR ACHIEVING GLORY

by
Ilyas Beg

Synchronisation of the 5th Quaid-i-Azam International Football Tournament with the 39th death anniversary of the Father of the Nation may have new significance for this game in this country. The event may start a new era in the history of football in Pakistan which has not been able to find a rightful place in our national sports structure due to various reasons. Every death anniversary of the Founder of this State is an occasion for honest soul-searching for all the Pakistanis. After 40 years of turmoil and turbulations, the game of football in Pakistan is now at a stage, wherefrom it can be taken to new heights or it may rock to an all-time low, if serious efforts were not put-in to put it on path to progress. Lahore is the historic city, where the Muslims of the Sub-Continent passed a resolution to create a new homeland for themselves forty-seven years ago. The same city is now the venue of the 5th Quaid-i-Azam International Football Tournament. If we resolve to raise the standard of football to that of the Asian level in Pakistan now, there is no reason as to why we should not be able to achieve our goal within a stipulated period of time. One fails to understand that a nation, which, against all odds, won freedom within seven years of passing that resolution, why cannot make headway in a game like football which is so popular among the masses and is still patronised by the Government.

Football has suffered the most due to groupism and in-fighting among the organisers of the game. In fact, groupism is the bane of our national sports, which has not allowed us to make a smooth progress like the other leading nations of the world. As this ailment affected our football the most, we have lagged behind even the small nations of Asia and Africa. The more pitiable thing is that we have not been able to maintain even the standard that we had achieved during the fifties. During the Quaid-i-Azam Football tournament, teams of China and some other countries will display their skill and we can learn a lot from their expertise.

A heartening fact is that despite all the set-backs that football has suffered, it is still the most popular game in Pakistan. Cricket has been able to reach our villages after many outstanding feats of our national team. Now, even in villages, one could see boys playing Cricket with the equipment one could hardly compare with the cricket gear. But since the inception of Pakistan, rather much before that, kabaddi and football have been the most popular sports of our rural areas. On finding a small ploughed field, the youth of the villages would gird up their loins and start playing kabaddi. Even now, a visitor to the rural areas can find young boys, in their multi-coloured dresses, and without a football of international dimensions, engaged in a game of football in the corner of an open field with a round rubber ball. This clearly shows that football is still the most popular sport of our country. There is no dearth of talent in this game in Pakistan. All we need is an honest effort to spot that talent and groom it to international level by scientific training. This objective can only be achieved if we could shed our differences and worked as a family to pull the game of football out of doldrums in a diligent manner. In order to make up for the lost time, we will have to redouble our efforts. The Quaid-i-Azam Football Tournament could be made a starting point. Besides providing our teams opportunities to participate in international competitions, we will also have to put our house in order and develop the game at provincial, divisional, district, tehsil, city and village level. This could only be done by organising a chain of tournaments at all levels and providing the young boys with modern scientific training.

Pakistani players are lucky that despite their poor standard, football has always been among the four major games of our country. There has been lot of criticism of the decisions to send the Pakistani Football Teams for foreign competitions abroad despite unsatisfactory results. But the government has, very wisely, not given much importance to that criticism and persisted with the policy of encouraging the Pakistani footballers. What is more, their national and provincial bodies continue to share a large amount of the grants-in-aid. But the organisers have not seen reason. By continuing their infighting, they are trying to cut the very roots of the game which they claim to be promoting. Now is the time to sink differences, patch-up and work for the uplift of football in the country. Their obstinacy to stick to their guns may deliver an irreparable blow to the game which they so dearly love. If they did not respond to the call of time, the time will never forgive them!

WHEN QUAID-I-AZAM KICKED A FOOTBALL

by

Fawad Hashmey

Quaid-i-Azam's biographers speak of his advice to his playmates to give up shooting marbles in dirty lanes and instead take to cricket. Did he ever wield a cricket bat, kick a football or bowl a cricket ball or for that matter pursued any other active game?

Yes, he did do one of these things. He kicked a football not at his residence, but on a regular and famed sports ground. Sustained investigations brought out revelations that would be news to many.

One reads about Quaid-e-Azam's membership of the prestigious Cricket Club of India and his interest in cricket, but one has still to come across a photograph showing either wielding the willow or even watching a big cricket match or using the fabulous swimming pool of a club in Bombay.

Of his life in Bombay there is one good action picture of the Quaid — the one showing him leaning over the edge of the billiards table, cue in hand, a cigar held firmly between his teeth. That is about all.

A photograph of the Quaid, not of good quality though, showing him riding a pony in Kashmir while on vacation there with his sister Mohtarma Fatimah Jinnah, did not indicate his interest in equestrian events either. It was only a "get away" from a terribly busy life—a sort of recuperative recreation.

But the Quaid, once in Delhi, not only stayed on a football ground for the entire duration of a match, he actually kicked the ball, too, to inaugurate the All India Quaid-e-Azam Football Tournament. The venue was the famous Ferozeshah Kotla Ground.

The joint secretary of the tournament committee, who did all the correspondence and initial speedwork, has a thrilling story to tell.

This, perhaps, was the one and only sporting engagement of the Quaid before Pakistan appeared on the world map as an independent nation. And his second opportunity was the inauguration of the first National Games of the newly born State at Karachi in 1948.

Towards the close of 1943, some energetic youngmen in Delhi, all civil employees, got together to organise a big national sports event there. They were all football enthusiasts and some of them played it too.

Their mentor, Mr. Sadiq Mirza was a popular and competent football referee. A rich business Mr. Hussain Malik, the son-in-law of late Mr. Ghulam Mohammad, the Governor-General of Pakistan, was the President of the tournament committee and late Mr. Rafi Multani of Delhi's wealthy Punjabi trading community was the Vice-President.

The committee held its planning sessions in a first floor room of an apartment building in New Delhi but details of field work were settled at their nocturnal headquarters in Urdu Bazar at the favourite Babban Hotel under the shadow of Shahjehan's Jamia Masjid.

It took nearly three months to place the tournament on the ground. Funds came mainly through donations and teams from all over India travelled to Delhi on their own expenses. The clubs were patrons who sent teams for participation, also took care of their hotel expenses. For movements in and around Delhi, Muslim transporters placed their buses at the disposal of the tournament committee.

Invitations were issued to all the football clubs in Delhi to contest the tournament but it was no surprise to find non-Muslim teams boycotting the tournament. Even non-Muslim referees refused to co-operate. It was a different matter, though, that a large number of them would turn up every afternoon to watch in action the famous teams like the Hyderabad Police, Bombay Rovers and Peshawar Afghans.

The tournament's inaugural date was fixed during the winter session of the Central Legislative Assembly so that all the Muslim members could attend its opening by Quaid-e-Azam. As the date drew near, the organising committee knew not how precisely to get the big event inaugurated. The members worried about the problem day in and day out till one fine morning a bright youngman's totally original idea swept the committee off its feet.

"Let the Quaid-i-Azam do the kick-off". Instantly 30 arms went up full length in spontaneous acclamation. So the big question was finally settled.

A big dilemma still remained. Who would pick up the courage and request Quaid-e-Azam to come to the centre of the ground to kick the football? A delicate man of 68 may hurt his toe or worse may react angrily to the request. Here was the novelest of the novel requests ever to be placed before the Quaid. The tournament had to be opened in a big way. There was no going back on it.

It was only to be broached to the Quaid but who would do it? Someone had to be found to pull off the feat and "well in time" too. The committee headed by its President and Vice-President approached Quaid's trusted lieutenant Mr. Liaquat Ali Khan who first gave his famous "face-upwards" grave pause and then nodded assent to the great relief of all concerned.

So, the great day dawned and pleasant afternoon got resplendent with Muslim legislators and the Muslim gentry of Delhi seated as spectators in their festival best and the teams in their colourful shorts and jersies, lined up in front for Quaid-i-Azam's inaugural address in which he laid great stress, inter alia, on importance of "esprit de corps" among the youth of India.

Address over, the Quaid was escorted to the centre line where he shook hands with the captains of Crescent and Youngmen Delhi and the referee. To the great delight of the huge crowd and amid deafening cheers he delicately kicked the ball not towards either of the goals, but along the centre line to show that he was not siding with either of the two opposing teams.

However, the ball deflected slightly towards one side. The other team-Crescent-taking it as a good omen played superbly throughout and eventually carried off the trophy claiming "we were destined to win because Quaid had kicked the ball on our behalf. We are Quaid's own team."
